Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on February 12, 2003 has been entered.

Cancellations of Claims

Claim 10 has been canceled per applicant's request in Paper No. 7, dated February 12, 2003.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 9 is redundant and thus, is indefinite. The limitations cited in claim 9 are previously cited in claim 7 from which claim 9 indirectly depends.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-5 and 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent 5,611,123 to Prizzi in view of U.S. Patent 5,362,018 to Darr et al., hereinafter, Darr or U.S. Patent 5,782,090 to Locke. Prizzi discloses in combination a releasable tube holder (10) and a longitudinal support (40), the tube holder comprising: a circular plastic tube split lengthwise into longitudinally mirror image straight halves forming two opposed clamping members (16, 18) joined together at across a first pair of split edges (20) and separated by a second pair of split edges (20), each of the clamping members provided with at least one separated handle member (22) positioned on one of the clamping member halves and opposite another handle member on the other clamping member half, the clamping member halves being hingedly connected by a living hinge (Figs. 4 and 5) between the first pair of split edges to activate opening and closing of the opposed clamping members and separation and closing of the second pair of split edges which engage and are secured to the support by applying and removing pressure on the oppositely positioned handle members; the longitudinal support supporting a towel (38); the plastic tube having an interior surface (36) which has been serrated; wherein the support is a beach chair having a longitudinal top support; wherein the hinge member extends along and in the direction of the axis of the one pair of straight across split edges hingedly connected; and wherein the hinge member extends axially along the first pair of split edges.

Prizzi discloses the claimed invention except for the limitation of the living hinge being formed by a groove. Darr also teaches that it is known in the clamping art to have a clamp/clip (30, Fig. 3) including a pair of clamping members (42) which are joined by a living hinge (40) at one pair of split edges and wherein the living hinge is formed by a groove (38). Locke teaches that it is known in the clamping art to have a clamp (10) including a pair of clamping members (20 and 30) hingedly connected by a living hinge (18) formed by a groove. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the living hinge in Prizzi to have been formed by a groove as taught by Darr and Locke for the purpose of providing an alternative mechanically equivalent means to permit bending and greater flexibility between the pair of joined clamping members.

Prizzi in combination with Darr or Locke disclose that the plastic tube is formed from polyvinyl chloride or similar plastic material. Prizzi discloses the claimed invention except for the limitation of the plastic tube being formed of polypropylene. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the material of the plastic in Prizzi to be polypropylene for the purpose of providing an alternative mechanical equivalent material of similar rigidity.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 6 is allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed February 2, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Prizzi reference now in combination with the Darr and/or Locke references disclose the instant invention of claims 1-5 and 7-9.

In regards to applicant's arguments that neither Darr nor Locke discloses a living hinge formed by a groove between a pair of split edges, both Darr and Locke meet this limitation. Darr and Locke both disclose a pair of split edges (as disclosed by the embodiment in Fig. 5 of applicant's instant invention) connected together by a living hinge (40 in Darr and 18 in Locke) formed by a groove (Fig. 3 of Darr and Fig. 5 of Locke) for providing greater flexibility of the clamping member.
